

“Patrick’s work and care totally improved my condition and I will be forever indebted to him”

I had been suffering severe Jaw and facial pain for around two years. In an attempt to correct this, I had been to see three separate practitioners in regards to the pain and was eventually recommended Patrick through a colleague of his who is based in Cork in Ireland.

I travelled down to London to see Patrick who immediately diagnosed me with TMJ disc dislocation on both sides of my jaw. Patrick made a splint for me and within 24 hours I felt pain and discomfort relief. Following this I had MRI scans, confirming the diagnosis and later surgery. This was followed by intensive physiotherapy, which required the use of a Therabite.

Fifteen years on, the pain I experienced has gone; occasionally some symptoms are recurring but to nowhere near the extent.

Patrick’s work and care totally improved my condition and I will be forever indebted to him.
